

Tom Greene

National Director
Men's Ministries | Light for the Lost

Tom Greene serves as the national director of Men's Ministries for the Assemblies of God. In this position, Greene provides leadership to the vision "to reach, teach and release men to grow to their full potential in Christ".

Greene's personal passion and ongoing commitment to missions has prepared him to lead the ministry of Light for the Lost as well. Light for the Lost is the missions project of Men's Ministries, which provides resources to missionaries and ministries for evangelistic outreach.

In addition to his administrative duties, Greene is committed to an extensive speaking schedule, traveling to churches, missions conventions, men's events and leadership conferences. He is also the author of the recently released book The Game Isn't Over.

Prior to joining the Men's Ministries team, Greene served in national Youth Ministries, most recently as the national youth director and previously as the national Speed the Light director. Greene transitioned to national Youth Ministries from a 12 year term as the district youth director in Oklahoma.

He and his wife, Pam, have two grown children, Bridgette and Andy, who are both involved in full-time ministry.
